

ACTIVATE ORGANIZATIONS.
DELIVER ALPHA.

Business Analyst

Humatica is a unique place to start and build your consulting career. We offer fast-track learning and career development from day one through working side by side with clients and senior team members in a diverse range of PE owned companies.

Humatica is a multi-award-winning, specialist management consultancy focused on increasing organisational effectiveness. We help Private Equity funds and their portfolio company leaders to build strong organisations that deliver value growth.

Our purpose is to help senior executive clients establish fit-for-purpose organizational structures, processes, and behaviours. We work closely with our clients to implement pragmatic solutions that improve management effectiveness at all levels, make teams more productive, drive accountability and ensure entrepreneurial leadership.

We have an open, collaborative and high-performance culture characterized by innate curiosity, transparency and respect for the individual. Personal development is facilitated through a rigorous and objective feedback process, training, and codified consulting best-practices in the "Humatica Way". We offer team members not only the opportunity to work directly with entrepreneurial CXO-level clients and PE-funds, but also actively contribute to the entrepreneurial growth of our firm.

We have proudly been awarded with the Great Place to Work® certification, including in the Consulting and Professional Services sector. This has reinforced what we have known for a long time, that we have great people, great values, and a true sense of purpose and community.

With offices in London, Zurich, Munich, Paris and Singapore, we work with demanding private equity funds across diverse industries in Europe, North America and Asia Pacific.

While our London office is long-established, joining our Munich office is a unique opportunity to be part of something new, with the benefit of a successful international brand and proven entrepreneurial team.

We are looking for outstanding candidates that share our passion for learning, diversity, and entrepreneurial drive.

Your role:

- Work in a team of experienced consultants on projects for national and international companies

- Support the team on hypothesis development
- Conduct research and analysis
- Communicate analytical results, summaries and conclusions
- Prepare client meeting and workshop materials
- Actively participate in client meetings and workshops
- Support the development and growth of our firm

Your profile:

- Degree in analytical discipline such as engineering, computer science, natural sciences, or in economics, finance or business-related field
- Fluency in English is essential; other desirable languages are French, German, Italian, Spanish, Swedish or Dutch (business-fluency in German is essential for the Munich office)
- Previous internships or work experience in a field relevant to your subject of study, and preferably in consulting and/ or an analytical role
- Strong analytical and structured thinker
- Confident self-starter with excellent communication skills
- Natural business interest
- Proficient in Excel and PowerPoint

Our offer:

- Award-winning specialist consultancy
- Fast-track career development and client exposure
- Engaged leadership with clear focus on your personal development
- Being part of a diverse, dynamic team
- New, entrepreneurial growth challenges in an innovative and rapidly developing sector
- Flexible remote and office working
- Competitive, performance-based compensation
- Attractive work location in Munich or central London
- UK sponsorship available for the London office

Specialist Advisor of the Year

